

Governing Body of Swanmore College of Technology External Governors

Darren Bailey serves on the curriculum, standards and improvement committee, pupil wellbeing committee and human resources and pay committee.

Tracy Baldwin is Chairman of Governors, the link governor for Whittle House, and sits on finance and resources committee, the curriculum, standards and improvements committee, the community committee and the pupil wellbeing committee. As well as being a freelance trainer, she is a lecturer at a local technical college and is a parent governor.

Ellie Bolton became a parent governor in November 2008. She is the link governor for Attenborough House and sits on the pupil welfare and wellbeing committee and the human resources and pay committee. Ellie is a freelance environmental training consultant and has a role in assisting the school with the implementation of its travel plan and with any areas to do with sustainability.

Linda Byrne has been a community governor at the college for 14 years, worked there for three years and is also a local authority governor at Wellstead primary school. She chairs the hr and pay committee and sits on the finance and resources committee and oversees governor training and is health and safety liaison governor. Her three children attended the college. Linda works as a teaching assistant at Swanmore primary school.

Dr. Lesley Collier is a parent governor and chairs the pupil and wellbeing committee and is link governor for providing special educational needs. As well as a consultant occupational therapist, she is also a senior lecturer at the University of Southampton.

Jos Creese is a community governor, chairing the community committee which brings together representation from all local parish councils and Winchester City Council as well as the college. Jos has been a governor for more than eight years, previously for Swanmore primary school. He has two children, both of whom attended the college, and is Head of IT for Hampshire County Council

Sharon Mordecai joins the college as a local authority governor. A former parent and teacher staff governor for eight years at Swanmore primary school, she currently works as an early years advisory teacher for Hampshire County Council. Her three children attended the college.

Sue Dewhirst is a parent governor and is on the pupil health and wellbeing committee and the community committee. She is also one of two link governors for the new Swanmore Parents Association (SPA) and a link governor for Hawking House. She has previously worked as a secondary school teacher and currently works for a local university in public health.

Tonya Goldring is chairman of the finance and resources committee, and serves on the human resources and pay committee.

Patrick Horwood is vice-chairman of the finance and resources committee and sits on the human resources and pay committee. He was previously a parent governor at Bishop's Waltham infants school. The eldest of his three children attends the college. Patrick was a regional and national journalist and currently works in public relations and corporate communications.

Marion Jarrett serves on the curriculum, standards and improvements committee, and is a link governor.